did not find too many parts that were humorous at all. The book was rather disjointed, to tell the truth. As an MS patient, stem cell therapy is of course foremost in my mind. Learning that she had had done in the year 2000 was pretty disgusting, when here we are 15 years later and it is still not approved -- not only that, but even the clinical trials are few and far between and very very limited as to patient eligibility. Of course, there is obviously some serious personal wealth at work here, or else she never would have been able to privately pay for this procedure. The price has nearly doubled now, and there is still no insurance available for this, and indeed, very few MS patients are able to access this at all even through clinical trials. I am really sorry that I wasted my money however. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. MS story By L. M. I very much enjoyed this book. Made me sad and definitely made me laugh. Uplifting and very well written. Hard to put down, a very good read! This is one strong lady who has a real positive outlook and is very funny. I don't have MS, yet I was still able to get a lot out of it. I highly recommend it for anyone. It is inspirational. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great book! By AC. Great book!! I have MS and had HSCT in May of 2015. This book was an inspiration and motivator for me getting the treatment!!

This is a hysterical book about a woman who found out she had Multiple Sclerosis, began declining rapidly and decided to take charge of her own health. It is her funny take on how she got M.S., why she got M.S., and what she did about it. The medications she was given by her doctors were no longer working so in March of 2000 she volunteered for a stem cell transplant at Scripps in San Diego, CA. During this experiment she almost died. So she listened to comedy tapes. It was the laughter that kept her alive. So now that she has been given a second chance at life, she decided to become a comedian and make everybody laugh. MORE REVIEWS "Wonderful, amazing, heartbreaking, inspiring." ~ Britta Wilder, writer and painter "Inspiration for anyone diagnosed with a serious disease. It shows that IT IS possible to not only beat the odds, but to pursue your passion at the same time." ~ John DeKoven, Bunjo's Comedy Club "Really good read. Thanks for the insightful look into your life. You're a brave woman." ~ Rich Stimbra, Asst. Dir. SFCC
