Rajan Schrenick : Autobiography of God before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Autobiography of God:

What is God and who is He? Did God make man or did man create God? If God could write about Himself, what would He say? These questions have always teased knowledgeable persons. Some accept the existence and authority of God and lead a happy life with their faith. Others refute the existence of God and are not unhappy with their belief.

Autobiography of God is a humorous and sometimes shocking look at life on our planet from the perspective of a superior being who may or may not share your personal beliefs.

About the Author Rajan Schrenick is a keen observer of things and events, and takes great pains to understand the situations and the mindset of persons involved in conflicting situations. Writing has always been his passion. He has written a number of short stories, novels, and essays on issues related to the everyday life of the common man. Schrenick has studied Mathematics and Philosophy. He lives in Germany with his wife and two children.
