The illustrations show many different types of babies doing all sorts of activities. Our daughter loves to point out all the "bah-bees." The rhyming story is cute and easy to read. The ending takes the cake with the sentimental message to your little one and a mirror on the final page. A great addition to any 9 to 36-month-old's library. 3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. adorable By A Customer Fantastically sweet book which my eight month old already calls, "Baba". It is a lovely gentle book to read with your baby and see her chuckle as she looks in the mirror at the end. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. My daughters favorite By Customer I have read this book countless times, my daughter has loved it since she was about 7 months go, she's 2 now. We know it by heart! I would highly recommend it.

Babies will enjoy looking at pictures of lots of different babies in a variety of situations, and will especially love looking at themselves in the mirror at the end! This beautifully illustrated and humorous book, with simple, rhyming text, is perfect for sharing with your baby. And in this handy-sized format, even the tiniest children can join in!

From School Library Journal PreSchool-A cozy, rhyming text describes all kinds of babies. The large-font narration describes active and passive and wobbly and dribbly tots, as well as those with a preference for teddies and others "who like muddles." The delightful language highlights words that are both fun to say and hear. The colorful illustrations feature a primarily pastel palette with hues of green, yellow, pink, and blue. The babies, of different races, are well-rounded figures with expressive, yet gentle features, shown playing, hugging, bouncing, and exploring. Even the pet cats and dogs have an inquisitive look as they frolic with the busy youngsters. The final line reads, "The baby that I love the best, with all my heart, is- YOU!" The last word is strategically placed opposite a mirror that is sturdily encased in the back endpaper. Blair Christolon, Prince William Public Library System, Manassas, VA Copyright 2003 Reed Business Information, Inc. From Booklist PreS. If there's one pastime that most babies and toddlers enjoy, it's watching other babies and toddlers. This lively picture book provides that pleasure without the bother of arranging a play date. The short, rhyming text lists all kinds of babies: "There are babies who like teddies, / there are babies who like muddles, / there are babies who like bathtimes, / there are babies who like cuddles." Each refrain appears on a separate page along with an illustration that spotlights one or two babies hugging teddy bears, making a mess, taking a bath, or cuddling together. The clean page design, warm colors, and well-drawn babies make each picture an engaging opportunity to look at, talk about, or simply enjoy. The racial mix of characters broadens the book's appeal. The last double-page spread spotlights the baby that the reader loves best; it features a Mylar mirror along with the punch line: "YOU!" This playful ending springs naturally from the book's consistently light, sunny tone. Young children and their parents will find this short, simple picture book irresistible.
