By MomA really funny take on baby board books for
1) the parent with a sense of humor; 2) telling your non-maternal sister she's going to be an aunt; and 3) humorously welcoming your child into legal adulthood with her/his first 'bartending' book whilst still keeping a proper child-parent relationship clear. If it weren't out of print I would have ordered a half dozen! Quite obviously, this book is not for the staid, serious-only parent but the rest of us can giggle over its existence.

By B. Anderson I *love* Lisa Brown's other works so I bought this book sight unseen. It's not her best work. My recommendations (ranking #s) are: "Baby make me breakfast" (#1), "Baby fix my car" (#2) and "Baby do my banking" (#3). "Baby mix me a drink" is a distant fourth. Then again, it's still fun!

By lilmonster I love this book and have gifted it over and over and over again (if they see a spike in San Diego sales, that's me!) It's a fun book to include in a baby board book gift basket, a fun read for mom/dad while baby looks on colorful pictures. You'll laugh out loud, as much as I hate that phrase :) Here's hoping baby is taking notes!

Many people are parents, and many parents are thirsty. Yet too many parents allow their infant sons and daughters to lie about idly: napping, drinking milk, and whatnot. Why not put them to work? Observe how tots enjoy the shapes and colors, all the while learning how to mix a variety of basic cocktails. Thanks, Baby!

About the Author Lisa Brown is an illustrator who lives in San Francisco with a husband and a baby.
