Snicker Giggle By Rebecca I tend to snicker and giggle a lot while reading this book. It is truly lol funny in places and all the cats seem to have a sense of humor or devious intentions. What you find in this delightful book is pictures of cats at their most amusing and they also seem to at times have quite the attitude. One cat sits looking at you with disregard saying: "No amount of catnip could make me love you." Then the humorous look on the December 2006 cat and the comment mirroring a famous poet's words goes beyond imitation as a compliment and takes it to the hilarious. Many of the cats have a name, age and hobby. The "least wanted" pictures don't seem to have an age and instead have a "why?" The "Bad Cat Early Warning Signs" are truly enjoyable especially #54: "Cat feigns helplessness to lure you within striking distance." While most of the cats are adult cats, there are a few adorable kittens. At the end of the book there is an entry form so you can enter a picture of your favorite cat. Photos must be received by February 13, 2007 to be considered for the 2008 Bad Cat Calendars. ~The Rebecca Review 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Well designed planner - entertaining as well By Amy Cubellis This is one of the best day planners I've come across. It's spiral bound, so it sits flat on your desk without curling, unlike most other planners I've seen. It has more than adequate room for daily appointments and such. I love the subject matter - I'm a huge cat fan, but I don't really care for the "cutesy" cat stuff. My own cats can be inscrutable jerks at times, and the photos and captions in the planner capture the moments when cats are both snotty and adorable perfectly. My personal favorite is the Prince Valiant on Nov. 12th - I crack up every time I look at it. I'm hopeful that the publisher will release a 2008 version - I'm not looking forward to trying to find another planner I can live with for a year.

Introducing the BAD CAT DAY PLANNER, adapted from Bad Cat, a #1 New York Times bestseller and the funniest cat book in recent memory. Spiral bound and in full color, this diary is a rogue's gallery of over 150 freaky felines with attitudes ranging from pushy to pathological. Here are cats beating up helpless stuffed animals. Cats under the influence. Cats scowling, cats scratching, cats swiping, cats dancing like perfect lunatics under the full moon. Welcome to kitty's dark side.
