Paul W. Wesler : Bible Ditties before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Bible Ditties:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Who knew thinking could be so fun? By JC "Seriously funny tidbits for life". That pretty much sums up this book. Paul Wesler brings a unique and fun writing style to everyday stories, be it parenting, sports, music, marriage or even Hee Haw (sorry you'll have to read that for yourself). In the chapter entitled "Huh?" one gets a sense of Paul's unusual 'perspective' when addressing common terms you hear all the time. I quote: "When a product says 'fat free,' they mean there is no charge for the fat." Or, "when they say 'LITE', they mean the stuff isn't as dark as other like products". And finally, "When they say 'low fat'....all the fat settles low upon your body." Okay admit it, you chuckled at that one. As engaging as these ditties are, they can also make you stop and think. Growing up were you the last one chosen for the teams? Read "Play Ball". Are you a parent? Read "Parenting 101" or "Child Tested". Differences with people? Try "The Great Divide" or "Camel Shoes". Paul ties each one in with biblical perspective in a way that only he can -- with humor and sincerity. There really is a lesson in each day of this thing called life. A lighthearted read filled with insight and wisdom. Who knew thinking could be so fun?

God is funny. Seriously. He's seriously funny. God is very serious about the way we live our lives, but he is also a God with a sense of humor. In this lighthearted collection of Bible ditties, author Paul Wesler shares real-life situations where God--and his humor--is present. In 'Dandelions,' Wesler tells readers to endure hardships, to be like the pesky dandelions that come back no matter how many times they're mowed down. 'Grin Reapers' teaches that just a simple smile will reap great rewards. 'No Littering' addresses the issue of gossip, comparing it to a litter of cats in a bag that are let out when gossip is spread. These stories and others like them impart simple but valuable lessons that remind readers that God has not lost his sense of humor, and everyone can share the last laugh.

Paul takes simple sayings we've used and heard throughout our lives and makes them chockfull of memorable lessons. Once you've read one ditty, just hearing the phrase will transport you back to the newly imbedded truth inspired by biblical principles. --Pastor Steve Brannan -- Chi Alpha Christian Fellowship Director, Wright State University, Dayton, Ohio
