Some of the captions are mildly humorous and some even thought-provoking, but all in all it's a fairly frivolous book.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. LOVE this bookBy Jenny MLOVE this book! The captions are funny and only outdone by the photographs. Kate Davis' bird photography is second to none and paired with the peculiar "Far Side"-ish captions, this book is so entertaining. The bonus is that there are bird factoids and items of interest in the back of the book that correspond with each photo, so while you are laughing, you can get a little education in as well. Super fun book for adults and kids. My 11 year old thinks it's great!! Perfect coffee table book and/or gift idea!1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Birds are FUN peopleBy JDSMontanaThis is an entertaining book which is well worth the price just for the gorgeous photos that Kate has taken. Her humor is subtle and tasteful just as one would expect to give respect to the bird portraits that she has included. Another bonus with this book is that it reminds me of some of the birds that I could encounter during a walk through the woods and streams. Her images are clear and large which mimic my 'mind's eye' of how I would image the birds that I see in the wild but in reality are too small and fleeting to study.Great book with a different point of view that is reminiscent of Gary Larson of the FAR SIDE!!

When you see a bird diving for a fish, landing on a perch, or singing from a fence post, do you wonder what it's saying or thinking? While staking out nests or waiting for the perfect shot on cold mornings, photographer Kate Davis has wondered plenty. In Birds Are People, Too, she lets her imagination fly with humorous takes on the avian world, from young owls pondering if their parents will really kick them out of the nest to a sleepy robin that awoke too late to get the worm. You'll be entertained and amazed by this extraordinary collection of more than 100 never-before-published action photos of 62 bird species.

Kate Davis knows birds, and it's a riot to see that someone as knowledgeable and talented as Kate can't help but anthropomorphize the behaviors of these beautiful and wondrous creatures. This book is a reminder of the beauty of the world, and that we have a kinship with all living things. Our ability to laugh at our condition is what makes us, and our avian friends, special. And hilarious. --BILL HARLEY, Grammy Award-winning storyteller, singer, author "Featuring splendid photography on every page..." --Wisconsin Bookwatch

About the Author: Surrounded by birds for the last 30 years, Kate Davis lives in an avian world. She founded the nonprofit education program Raptors of the Rockies in 1988 and keeps over a dozen birds of prey at facilities at her home in western Montana. In this, her sixth book, she presents a different slant on a bird guide: a humorous and human look at our avian neighbors. Kate is a photography fanatic. For months out of the year she spends most evenings along the river behind her house, a bird mecca. Kate's motto: "Always have your camera ready. You never know what might fly by."
