Wolf Avni : Mean-mouthed, Hook-jawed, Bad News Son-of-a-fish before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Mean-mouthed, Hook-jawed, Bad News Son-of-a-fish:

A collection of humorous and irreverent fly-fishing stories and photographs, written by Wolf Avni, owner and developer of the Giants Cup Wilderness Reserve. Fishermen's yarns are intertwined with lyrical narrative describing the beautiful environs in which trout fishing streams occur.

Wolf avni's elegant turn of phrase, his delicious sarcasms and his obvious delight in the absurd make him a writer of Gift. Unsentimental and poetic, it is writing that is a thrill in itself. Robert Kirby. --Foreword"...ours is a rainbow nation, whose literature Avni has embellished. Jim Jones. --Business Day"... sharp vision enriched by deep reading has created a most readable book. it deserves to be read by all fly-fishermen for its incisive perspectives..." Ron Anderson --The Star
