About the AuthorHi, I am Carolin Palmer. I am an artist and writer. I am also a mother of nine, grandmother to sixteen and still counting and I have been interim parent to several more. When asked "Where did you get them?" My answer is, "Where I got them doesn't matter, how I love them does". I have been blessed and trusted with many things. Nothing is greater than the children I have received in my life. My youngest is now five and my oldest is thirty four. They have offered me more material to work with than the sewing section in a department store. We fit together like a patch work quilt, no two pieces are the same. We are stitched tightly in a mix match pattern with many colors. I could not ask for a more beautiful blanket that warms my heart. I am a freelance artist and writer. I am open to exploring opportunities to sell my work in many venues. I work from home most of the time. I am reliable, punctual, and committed to giving my best to your request. If you would like to reach me you can contact me by email, Twitter or Facebook. I enjoy engaging with my readers and appreciate all feedback. Thank you, Carolin D. Palmer
