Jon Link, Mick Bunnage : Mindless Violence Colouring Book (Modern Toss Colouring Books) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Mindless Violence Colouring Book (Modern Toss Colouring Books):

Absolutely ridiculous.By ChadGarDadI gave this to my 26 year old sister as a Christmas present. It kept her laughing for about 10 minutes as she flipped through the pages. It made my 10 year old so jealous that he asked for a copy. I ordered him the Ancient Aliens coloring book instead. Seemed more appropriate for him.4 of 8 people found the following review helpful. Three StarsBy Matt191145Could be more violent. Not much blood.

Achieve a mindful state as you color in these adrenaline-soaked scenes of mindless violence, created for you by a dedicated team of plain clothes therapists. Experience an overwhelming sense of inner peace as you immerse yourself and your pencils in a world of detail and surprises, including: a man bending a lamppost; a woman setting about a fruit tree with a baseball bat; some blokes fighting over a parking space, plus many more scenes of contemporary life set against complex geometric patterns ideal for coloring in. Explore, enjoy and pencil your way to a full mind balance re-boot!

“The grand masters of profanity are muscling in on the craze for colouring with images of utterly surreal and dumb brutality.” -- The Guardian
About the Author
The scurrilous, global cult comic Modern Toss is the work of Jon Link and Mick Bunnage. As writers, cartoonists, and animators they’ve taken Modern Toss in many different directions - from challenging late night television to cutting edge advertising, and from international design magazines to greeting card racks. In 2014 a Kickstarter campaign for their 10th anniversary book ‘A Decade in the Shithouse’ became the UK’s second biggest ever comic crowdfunding success, exceeding their target within 48 hours of going live. Their work features regularly in The Guardian and Private Eye Magazine.
