The New Yorker Magazine, The New Yorker Magazine, The w Magazine : The New Yorker Magazine Book of Mom Cartoons before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The New Yorker Magazine Book of Mom Cartoons:

A lot of these are pretty old and definitely in the New Yorker style. If you are not familiar with that style, think a little of british humor... somewhat dry, but funny. The cartoons do require a little more intelligence than typical cartoons. Your 10 year old will not get most of these cartoons. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Perfect gift for a new momBy Diane23I overcame my feelings of guilt about reading a book before presenting it to my daughter-in-law. The New Yorker Magazine is and always has been in a class by itself -- especially the cartoons. This is a great gift for a mom-in-progress and/or a mom who will remember her own mother and childhood. Something of a lampoon for all of us. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy FFIgreat book...should have bought the hard cover...

Tastier than chocolate, longer lasting than a bouquet of flowers, and guaranteed to be just her size, The Book of Moms features 100 hilarious New Yorker cartoons about motherhood from cartoon greats like Roz Chast, Danny Shanahan, Leo Cullum, and 43 more. "Know that for every exuberant 'I love you' from a three-year-old, you're bound to get a, as they say, developmentally appropriate 'I hate you' from a thirteen-year-old. The trick is to embrace the one and let go of the other. . . . Laughter helps." --Cartoonist Barbara Smaller, introduction to the Book of Moms Perfect for Mother's Day, new moms, and sharp daughters-in-law, enjoy these 100 sarcastically pitch-perfect cartoons culled from The New Yorker archives to celebrate Mom's unique motherly mom-ness. Now, you don't even need to subscribe to get in on the jokes. More The New Yorker Magazine Book of Mom Cartoons Since 1925, The New Yorker has cultivated the creme de la creme of cartooning elite, a vanguard of sketching artists with astute wit and clever perceptions of life and living. Inside this special collection, foremost New Yorker cartoonists such as Charles Barsotti, Robert Mankoff, and Barbara Smaller offer up 100 black-and-white single-panel cartoons in tribute to a diverse array of moms, ranging from football and CEO moms to tattooed and jack-in-the-box moms. A witty introduction by New Yorker cartoonist Barbara Smaller opens this homage to parenting by calling attention to a few of her favorite strips within the collection, including: * Roz Chast's "Bad Mom cards, where Lucy, Gloria, and others are guilty, guilty, guilty of such crimes as not making Play-Doh from scratch or serving orange soda." * Sam Gross's cartoon depicting a "primordial ooze rising out of a test tube . . . inquiring hopefully of the scientist, 'Are you my mommy?'"

About the Author Although its reviews and events listings often focus on cultural life within New York City, The New Yorker boasts an international audience and is well-known for its commentaries on popular culture and eccentric Americana; its attention to modern fiction and poetry by the inclusion of short stories, literary reviews, and original poems; its rigorous fact-checking and copyediting; its journalistic regard for world politics and social issues; and its famous single-panel cartoons sprinkled throughout each edition.
