Christopher Goodwins : The Old Testament in Limerick Verse before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Old Testament in Limerick Verse:

3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Great idea, not brilliantly executed By Gontropo I wanted to like Goodwins' book, and enjoyed reading a few of his limericks in the bookstore, but having purchased it, I feel like I have been had! Most of the limericks are weak, and too often, the author has not completely grasped the meaning of the biblical passage he is writing about. One of his better ones is about Caleb: [See Joshua chapter 14] At eighty-five, Caleb said "I Am strong as I ever was. My Inheritance, Hebron, Was Moses' gift - and on My God I will always rely." A great idea, but be warned: the idea is better than the execution.0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. The Old Testament in Limerick VerseBy A Customerthis book is a work of comic genius, it is absolutely priceless and very catchy too

To match "The New Testament in Limerick Verse", this book is a condensed version of the Old Testament and Apocrypha translated into limerick verse to include the major themes and personalities of the books. The verses are easily memorable and can be a teaching aid as well as just for fun.

About the AuthorThe author, Christopher Goodwins, was vicar of St Mary's, Plymouth for nearly 30 years and although retired is presently Priest-in-Charge of St Andrew's, Islesham. He has been broadcasting as Epilogian with Westward Television and Television south West for the last 17 years in the 'Faith for Life' and 'Postscript' series. His interests are varied, from singing counter-tenor, riding motor-cycles, flying small aircrafts like Cessnas and Katanas, to appearing on TV quizz shows! (Was contestant and winner of BBC WIPEOUT programme 4th May 2001, has also reached quarter finals of 'Who Wants to be a Great Cook?', and came 2nd on Channel 5's '100 percent Gold'.) Christopher Goodwins, lives in Ely, Cambridge with his wife Doreen. He has two grown up children and also possesses a great sense of humour.
